FORDHAM UNIVERSITY
THE SCHOOL OF LAW

Fordham Law | CLE

The Fordham Law Review and the Neuroscience and Law Center

PRESENT

THE NEW AI

The Legal and Ethical Implications of
ChatGPT and Other Emerging Technologies

Friday, November 3, 2023
9:30am – 5:25pm EDT
In-Person and via Zoom Webinar

Fordham Law School
150 West 62nd Street
New York, NY
Skadden Conference Center
Costantino Room

6 CLE Credits
4 Ethics and Professionalism
1 Diversity, Inclusion, and Elimination of Bias
1 Cybersecurity, Privacy and Data Protection Ethics

8:30am – 9:30am
Check in and Breakfast

9:30am – 9:40am
Welcome and Introduction

Matthew Diller, JD
Dean and Paul Fuller Professor of Law
Fordham University School of Law

9:40am – 11:00am
Developments and Advancements in AI

Daniel Martin Katz, PhD, JD
Professor of Law
Chicago-Kent College of Law

Daren Orzechowski, JD
Partner; Global Co-Head of Technology Practice
Allen & Overy LLP

Marc Rotenberg, JD, LLM
Founder and Executive Director
Center for AI and Digital Policy

Harry Surden, JD
Professor of Law
University of Colorado

MODERATOR:
Bernice Grant, JD
Clinical Associate Professor of Law
Senior Director, Entrepreneurial Law Program
Founding Director, Entrepreneurial Law Clinic
Fordham University School of Law

11:00am – 11:10am
Short Break

11:10am – 12:30pm
AI's Effect on Law, Legal Education and Neuroscience: Decision Making and Balance

Heather Hughes, JD
Professor and Senior Associate Dean for Faculty and Academic Affairs
American University Washington College of Law

Andrew Perlman, JD, LLM
Dean & Professor of Law
Suffolk University School of Law

Jed S. Rakoff, JD
Judge, United States District Court
Southern District of New York

Jason M. Schultz, JD
Professor of Clinical Law
Director, Technology Law & Policy Clinic
Co-Director, Engelberg Center on Innovation Law and Policy
NYU School of Law

MODERATOR:
Ron Lazebnik, JD
Clinical Associate Professor of Law
Academic Director of the Center on Law and Information Policy
Fordham University School of Law

12:30pm – 1:30pm
Lunch Break

1:30pm – 2:50pm
Ethical Issues Relating to AI: Bias, Discrimination, and Privacy

Tina Eliassi-Rad, PhD
Professor & President Joseph E. Aoun Chair
Khoury College of Computer Sciences
Northeastern University

Margaret Hu, JD
Taylor Reveley Research Professor & Professor of Law
Director of the Digital Democracy Lab
William & Mary Law School

Joseph Lockinger, JD
Special Counsel, Cooley LLP

Jumana Musa, JD
Director
NACDL's Fourth Amendment Center

Matthew Sag, LLB
Professor of Law in Artificial Intelligence, Machine Learning, and Data Science
Emory University Law School

MODERATOR:
Aniket Kesari, PhD, JD
Associate Professor
Fordham University School of Law

2:50pm – 3:00pm
Short Break

3:00pm – 4:20pm
Potential Benefits of AI

Abdi Aidid, JD, LLM
Assistant Professor
University of Toronto Faculty of Law

Daniel W. Linna Jr., JD
Senior Lecturer & Director of Law and Technology Initiatives
Northwestern Pritzker School of Law & McCormick School of Engineering

William Min, JD
Executive Vice President and General Counsel
LexisNexis Risk Solutions

Andrew W. Torrance, PhD, JD
Paul E. Wilson Distinguished Professor of Law
University of Kansas

MODERATOR:
Joseph Landau, JD
Associate Dean for Academic Affairs and Professor of Law
Fordham University School of Law

4:20pm – 4:30pm Short Break

4:30pm – 5:20pm
Keynote

Katherine B. Forrest, JD
Partner
Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison LLP

MODERATOR:
Deborah W. Denno, PhD, JD
Arthur A. McGivney Professor of Law
Founding Director, Neuroscience and Law Center
Fordham University School of Law

5:20pm – 5:25pm
Concluding Remarks

Abigail McCabe
Editor-in-Chief, Fordham Law Review
Fordham University School of Law

John Tsimis
Executive Symposia Editor, Fordham Law Review
Fordham University School of Law

5:30pm – 6:30pm
Cocktail Hour and Networking Reception

Abdi Aidid, JD, LLM
Assistant Professor
University of Toronto Faculty of Law

Abdi Aidid is an Assistant Professor at the University of Toronto Faculty of Law, researching and teaching in the areas of civil procedure, torts, and law & technology. He received his B.A. from the University of Toronto, his JD from Yale Law School and his LL.M from the Faculty of Law. Professor Aidid previously practiced litigation and arbitration at Covington & Burling LLP in New York City and most recently served as the VP, Legal Research at Blue J, where he oversaw the development of machine learning-enabled research and analytics tools.

Deborah W. Denno, PhD, JD
Arthur A. McGivney Professor of Law
Founding Director, Neuroscience and Law Center
Fordham University School of Law

Deborah W. Denno is the Arthur A. McGivney Professor of Law and Founding Director of the Neuroscience and Law Center at Fordham Law School. Seven of Professor Denno's articles have been cited by the United States Supreme Court, some multiple times and/or in different cases and one article has been cited in three different cases—primarily in conjunction with her scholarship on execution methods. In 2016, the Fordham Student Bar Association named Professor Denno Teacher of the Year. Her forthcoming book, Changing Law's Mind: How Neuroscience Can Help Us Punish Criminals More Fairly and Effectively (Oxford University Press), focuses on her study of how criminal cases use neuroscientific evidence. This same study is discussed in some of her recent articles: Concocting Criminal Intent, 105 Georgetown Law Journal 323 (2017), Neuroscience and the Personalization of Criminal Law, 85 University of Chicago Law Review 359 (2019), How Courts in Criminal Cases Respond to Childhood Trauma, 103 Marquette Law Review 301 (2019) (keynote speaker), and How Experts Have Dominated the Neuroscience Narrative in Criminal Cases for Twelve Decades: A Warning for the Future, 63 William & Mary Law Review 1215 (2022) (Symposium on the Future of Neuroscience).

Matthew Diller, JD
Dean and Paul Fuller Professor of Law
Fordham University School of Law

Matthew Diller is Dean and Paul Fuller Professor of Law at Fordham Law School. He previously served as Dean of the Benjamin N.Cardozo School of Law from 2009 to 2015. He began his career as a clerk for the Honorable Walter R. Mansfield of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, and then he was a staff attorney at the Legal Aid Society in New York. He entered academia in 1993 as a member of the faculty at Fordham Law School, where he held the Cooper Family Professorship, was co-director of the Louis Stein Center for Law and Ethics, and was associate dean for Academic Affairs from 2003 to 2008. Dean Diller served as a member of the board of directors of Legal Services NYC from 1999 to 2009, and he was vice chair from 2003 to 2007. He was a member of the executive committee of the poverty law section of the Association of American Law Schools and was chair in 1999–2000. From 2000 to 2008, he was a member of the board of directors of the National Center for Law and Economic Justice. Dean Diller also was a member of the New York City Bar Association's Task Force on New Lawyers in a Changing Profession. Currently, Dean Diller is a member of the Task Force to Expand Access to Civil Legal Services in New York and is chair of the Task Force's Committee on Law School Involvement. He also serves on the board of the Legal Aid Society of New York, is a Fellow of the American Bar Foundation, and is a member of the Leaders Council of the Legal Services Corporation. In 1991, the Association of the Bar of the City of New York honored him with a legal services award. He has received the Louis J. Lefkowitz Award for the Advancement of Urban Law from the Fordham Urban Law Journal (2000), the Eugene J. Keefe Award for outstanding contributions to Fordham Law

School (2002), and the Fordham Law Dean's Medal of Achievement (2009). In 2014, the American Association of Law Schools' Section on Pro Bono and Public Service Opportunities awarded Dean Diller the Deborah L. Rhode Award for his leadership in legal education and public service. He received an AB and a JD, both magna cum laude, from Harvard University, where he was an editor of the Harvard Law Review.

Tina Eliassi-Rad, PhD
Professor & President Joseph E. Aoun Chair
Khoury College of Computer Sciences
Northeastern University

Tina Eliassi-Rad is a Professor of Computer Science and President Joseph E. Aoun Chair at Northeastern University. She is also a core faculty member at Northeastern's Network Science Institute and the Institute for Experiential AI. In addition, she is an external faculty member at the Santa Fe Institute and the Vermont Complex Systems Center. Prior to joining Northeastern, Tina was an Associate Professor of Computer Science at Rutgers University; and before that she was a member of technical staff at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory. Tina earned her Ph.D. in Computer Sciences (with a minor in Mathematical Statistics) at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Her research is at the intersection of data mining, machine learning, and network science. Tina's work has been applied to personalized search on the World-Wide Web, statistical indices of large-scale scientific simulation data, fraud detection, mobile ad targeting, cyber situational awareness, drug discovery, democracy and online discourse, and ethics in machine learning. Her algorithms have been incorporated into systems used by governments and industry (e.g., IBM System G Graph Analytics), as well as open-source software (e.g., Stanford Network Analysis Project). Tina received an Outstanding Mentor Award from the U.S. Department of Energy's Office of Science in 2010, became an ISI Foundation Fellow in 2019, was named one of the 100 Brilliant Women in AI Ethics in 2021, received Northeastern University's Excellence in Research and Creative Activity Award in 2022, was awarded the Lagrange Prize-CRT Foundation in 2023, and was elected Fellow of the Network Science Society in 2023.

Katherine B. Forrest, JD
Partner
Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison LLP

Katherine is widely considered to be among the nation's foremost advisors on legal issues relating to technology, including artificial intelligence, big data, the digital environment, and high-speed trading and content distribution. A partner in the Litigation Department, co-chair of the Digital Technology Group and a member of the Antitrust Practice Group, Katherine previously served as a federal district judge for the Southern District of New York and as a Deputy Assistant Attorney General in the Department of Justice's Antitrust Division. A veteran trial attorney with more than 30 years of experience, she has led complex, high-stakes litigation spanning antitrust, copyright, patent, and media law, and regulatory and litigation matters at the intersection of technology and the law, including in relation to artificial intelligence, Web3 and digital assets. She has led numerous sensitive, high-profile investigations involving the DOJ, FTC and other U.S. and foreign regulators. Katherine has authored two books entitled "When Machines Can be Judge, Jury and Executioner: Justice in the Age of Artificial Intelligence" (on algorithmic bias) and "Is Justice Real When "Reality" is Not: The Construction of Ethical Systems in Virtual Worlds." She is a regular technology columnist for the New York Law Journal, and recently earned a distinguished legal writing award from The Burton Awards for her AI-focused article, "The Holographic Judge." Katherine has delivered numerous lectures to the National Judicial College and the New York State Judicial Institute, among others, on topics related to AI and the metaverse. Among other recognitions, she was recently named to Benchmark Litigation's "Top 100 Trial Lawyers in America" list and "Top 250 Women in Litigation" list, and was named the 2022 New York City "Lawyer of the Year" by The Best Lawyers in America for Antitrust Law. Katherine is active in numerous charitable and professional organizations. Among others, she is a Fellow of the American Bar Foundation and currently serves on the board of trustees of Choate Rosemary Hall, a boarding school.

Bernice Grant, JD, LLM
Clinical Associate Professor of Law
Senior Director, Entrepreneurial Law Program
Founding Director, Entrepreneurial Law Clinic
Fordham University School of Law

Bernice Grant is a Clinical Associate Professor of Law, Senior Director of the Entrepreneurial Law Program, and Founding Director of the Entrepreneurial Law Clinic. She teaches students how to provide transactional legal services, using an integrated law and business perspective informed by her background as a corporate attorney and certified public accountant. She has published articles in the Hastings Law Journal and the Journal of Affordable Housing and Community Development Law. Currently, she is examining how transactional clinics can leverage technology and the extent to which employment, corporate, and tax laws promote or hinder innovation. She also created the Startup LAWnchpad Podcast, which educates entrepreneurs about legal issues affecting startup ventures. Before joining Fordham, she was a Clinical Supervisor and Lecturer in the Entrepreneurship Legal Clinic at the University of Pennsylvania Carey Law School, and an Acting Assistant Professor and Associate Director of the Lawyering Program at New York University School of Law. She began her legal career as a Corporate Associate at Davis Polk & Wardwell LLP, where she advised clients on a wide range of complex corporate transactions and executive compensation matters for seven years. She also maintained a pro bono practice, advising entrepreneurs and artists on legal issues. She received her JD from Harvard Law School, LLM from NYU School of Law, and M.S. and B.S., magna cum laude from Wake Forest University. She is the recipient of the American Association of Law School's 2022 M. Shanara Gilbert Award for emerging clinicians.

Margaret Hu, JD
Taylor Reveley Research Professor & Professor of Law
Director of the Digital Democracy Lab
William & Mary Law School

Margaret Hu is the Taylor Reveley Research Professor and Professor of Law, and Director of the Digital Democracy Lab at William & Mary Law School. She is also a Research Affiliate with the Institute for Computational and Data Sciences at Penn State University. Her research interests include the intersection of national security, cybersurveillance, and AI and civil rights. Previously, she served as senior policy advisor for the White House Initiative on Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders, and also served as special policy counsel for immigration-related discrimination in Civil Rights Division, U. S. Department of Justice, in Washington, D.C.

Heather Hughes, JD
Professor and Senior Associate Dean for Faculty and Academic Affairs
American University Washington College of Law

Heather Hughes has taught commercial, corporate, and property law at American University Washington College of Law (WCL) since 2007. Her current research concerns the impact of emerging technologies on law and the legal profession. Professor Hughes is the author of several publications on law and emerging technologies, including "The Complex Implications of FinTech for Financial Inclusion," 84 Law & Contemp. Probs. 113 (2021); and "Blockchain and the Future of Secured Transactions Law," 3 Stan. J. of Blockchain Law & Pol'y 21 (2020). In addition, she co-authors a textbook, Secured Transactions Teaching Materials, 5th Ed. (with James J. White and G. Eric Brunstad, Jr.). Her most recent manuscript, "Robots, Markets, and The Value of Deal Lawyers," 49 J. Corp. L. (forthcoming 2024), explores how automation in markets and in lawyers' work products implicates transactional law practice. In 2019 she won the WCL Award for Excellence in Teaching. In 2017 she won the Edwin A. Mooers Scholar Award for her article on the status of laws governing asset-backed issuances and, in 2010, the Emalee C. Godsey Scholar Award for her article on debt finance and environmental sustainability. She graduated from Harvard Law School after college at the University of Chicago. Before entering academia, Professor Hughes was an associate in the business department at Morrison & Foerster LLP. Since 2022, she has served as WCL's Senior Associate Dean for Faculty and Academic Affairs.

Jake Karr, JD
Deputy Director, Technology Law & Policy Clinic
NYU School of Law

Jake Karr is the Deputy Director of NYU's Technology Law & Policy Clinic and a fellow at the Engelberg Center on Innovation Law & Policy, where he is a member of Knowing Machines, a research project tracing the histories, practices, and politics of how machine learning systems are trained to interpret the world. Previously, Jake served as the Stanton Fellow in the First Amendment Clinic at ASU's Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law, a legal fellow with the Knight First Amendment Institute at Columbia University, and a law clerk to the Honorable Allyne R. Ross of the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of New York. Jake is a graduate of NYU Law and Brown University.

Daniel Martin Katz, PhD, JD
Professor of Law
Chicago-Kent College of Law

Professor Katz is a scientist, technologist and professor who applies an innovative polytechnic approach to teaching law - to help create lawyers for today's biggest societal challenges. Both his scholarship and teaching integrate science, technology, engineering, and mathematics. Professor Katz joined Chicago-Kent in 2015 from Michigan State University College of Law, where he co-founded the ReInvent Law Laboratory, an innovative multidisciplinary center that focused on the intersection of entrepreneurship, informatics, programming and design thinking to better understand, analyze and design the law. Professor Katz has published or forthcoming work in a wide variety of academic outlets, including Science, Plos One, Scientific Reports, Journal of the Royal Society Interface, Journal of Statistical Physics, Frontiers in Physics, Physica A, Proceedings of the ACL and Artificial Intelligence & Law. In addition, his work has been published in legal journals including Cornell Journal of Law & Public Policy, Emory Law Journal, Virginia Tax Review, Iowa Law Review, Illinois Law Review, Ohio State Law Journal, Journal of Law & Politics, and Journal of Legal Education. Professor Katz co-edited a volume entitled Legal Informatics (Cambridge University Press - 2021). His work has been highlighted in a number of media outlets, including the New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, Financial Times, BBC Radio, Wired, Vox, National Public Radio, Slate Magazine, Huffington Post, 538, Bloomberg Businessweek, ABA Journal, Law Technology News and The American Lawyer. Professor Katz is actively involved in the rapidly growing legal technology industry. Professor Katz is actively involved in the rapidly growing legal technology industry. He recently co-founded 273 Ventures - a legal AI company who is building the next generation Kelvin Legal Data Operating System. Previously, he was the Co-Founder & Chief Strategy Officer of LexPredict (a legal technology and analytics company that was acquired by Elevate in 2018). Professor Katz received his PhD. in political science and public policy with a focus on complex adaptive systems from the University of Michigan. He graduated with a Juris Doctor cum laude from the University of Michigan Law School.

Aniket Kesari, JD
Associate Professor
Fordham University School of Law

Aniket Kesari is an Associate Professor at Fordham Law School. His research focuses on law & technology, data science, and public policy. He uses techniques drawn from causal inference, machine learning, and natural language processing to investigate questions in law & tech, and he is also interested in integrating data science into empirical legal studies more broadly. Some of his recent scholarship covers data breach notification laws, mandatory cybersecurity risk disclosures, privacy and algorithmic fairness, trademark search engines, and online hate speech. His work has appeared in law reviews (George Washington Law Review, Berkeley Technology Law Journal, Illinois Journal of Law, Technology, and Policy, NYU Journal of Legislation and Public Policy), peer-reviewed social science outlets (Journal of Empirical Legal Studies, Journal of Online Trust and Safety), and peer-reviewed computer science proceedings (Neural Information Processing Systems AI for Social Good Workshop, ACM Symposium on Computer Science and Law, International Conference on Artificial Intelligence and Law). In ongoing work he is conducting computational audiovisual analysis on courtroom videos, using large language models to summarize legal documents, and developing toolkits for effective AI explanations. Prior to joining Fordham in 2023, Aniket was a research fellow at NYU's Information Law Institute, a postdoc at UC Berkeley's Social Science D-Lab, and a visiting researcher at ETH Zurich's Center for Law & Economics. At Berkeley, he co-developed a Data Science, Prediction, and Law undergraduate course, a Computer Programming for Lawyers JD course, and Computational Social Science doctoral course. He was also a Tech Policy Intern at GitHub, a Data Science for Social Good Fellow at the University of Chicago, and a Google Policy Fellow at Engine.

Joseph Landau, JD
Associate Dean for Academic Affairs and Professor of Law
Fordham University School of Law

Joseph Landau is the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs and a Professor of Law at Fordham Law School. He writes at the intersection of constitutional law and civil procedure, and he has long taught both of those subjects to first-year students at Fordham. He received the Fordham Law Dean's Distinguished Research Award for 2020-2021 and Fordham Law's Teacher of the Year Award in 2012-2013 and again in 2019-2020. In 2012, he was named one of the Best LGBT Lawyers Under 40 by the National LGBT Bar Association. Professor Landau graduated from Yale Law School in 2002 and clerked for the Hon. David Trager of the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of New York and the Hon. Betty Binns Fletcher of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit. Prior to joining the Fordham faculty, he was an associate at Cleary Gottlieb Steen & Hamilton LLP, where in addition to specializing in securities litigation he co- directed the Firm's pro bono practice group in immigration and international human rights (including Guantánamo Bay litigation). From 2010 to 2013, he was Board Chairman of Immigration Equality and the Immigration Equality Action Fund. Prior to law school, Professor Landau was the Assistant Managing Editor at The New Republic magazine in Washington, D.C.

Ron Lazebnik, JD
Clinical Associate Professor of Law
Director of the Samuelson-Glushko Intellectual Property & Information Law Clinic
Director of the JD Externship Program
Academic Director of the Center on Law and Information Policy
Fordham University School of Law

Ron Lazebnik is the Academic Director of Fordham's Center on Law and Information Policy, the Director of Fordham's JD Externship Program, and the Director of the school's Samuelson-Glushko Intellectual Property and Information Law Clinic. His academic and scholarly interests include IP law, information law, and intersection of law and technology. Before joining Fordham, he was in private practice, where he helped represent clients in various matters involving patents, copyrights, trademarks, trade secrets, and general commercial litigation. He has also assisted in the defense of corporations and government agencies being investigated by the SEC, the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, and the U.S. Department of Justice. Professor Lazebnik is a graduate of Harvard Law School, and holds a Master's degree in electrical engineering from Case Western Reserve University.

Daniel W. Linna Jr., JD
Senior Lecturer
Director of Law and Technology Initiatives
Northwestern Pritzker School of Law & McCormick School of Engineering

Daniel W. Linna Jr. has a joint appointment at Northwestern Pritzker School of Law and McCormick School of Engineering as a Senior Lecturer and the Director of Law and Technology Initiatives. Dan's teaching and research focus on innovation and technology, including the use of artificial intelligence and data analytics to improve legal-services delivery, and the law, regulation, and governance of computational technologies. Dan is also an affiliated faculty member at CodeX — The Stanford Center for Legal Informatics. Dan received his BA from the University of Michigan, received a second BA and an MA in public policy and administration from Michigan State University, and graduated magna cum laude, Order of the Coif from the University of Michigan Law School. Dan began his legal career with a one-year judicial clerkship for U.S. Court of Appeals Judge James L. Ryan. After his clerkship, he joined Honigman Miller Schwartz and Cohn, where he was elected equity partner in 2013. Before law school, Dan was an information technology manager, developer, and consultant.

Joseph Lockinger, JD
Special Counsel, Cooley LLP

Joseph Lockinger is a special counsel in Cooley LLP's employment counseling and litigation practices. As a litigator, he has substantial experience defending clients in state and federal courts and representing clients at administrative tribunals. When counseling clients, he assists with everyday employment related issues or decisions, such as the decision to hire, fire or discipline an employee, as well with more complex concerns, such as protecting trade secrets and avoiding unfair competition. Joseph spoke recently at the New York State Bar Association's continuing legal education program on the role of artificial intelligence in the hiring process in New York City. He addressed New York City's Automated Employment Decision Tools law, and how employers who use artificial intelligence and algorithm-based technologies for recruiting, hiring or promotion should begin preparing for compliance.Joseph also regularly advises clients facing allegations and charges of unlawful conduct (such as discrimination, hostile work environment, harassment, retaliation, wrongful termination, or wage and hour violations) and he uses his extensive employment litigation experience to develop effective defense strategies for any claims asserted against clients. Upon graduation from the University of Virginia School of Law, Joseph worked as an assistant corporation counsel in the labor and employment division of the New York City Law Department. At the law department, Joseph represented the City of New York in a broad range of employment litigation matters, ranging from single plaintiff discrimination cases to complex federal class actions. Prior to practicing law, Joseph served in the US Marine Corps.
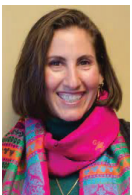

Hideyuki Matsumi, LLM
Doctoral Researcher/Candidate
Vrije Universiteit Brussel (VUB)

Hideyuki Matsumi, or Yuki, is a doctoral researcher at the Research Group on Law Science, Technology and Society (LSTS) of the Vrije Universiteit Brussel (VUB). He is also a member of the Health and Ageing Law Lab (HALL), and works on EU H2020 project Hospital Smart development based on AI (HosmartAI). His research focuses on law and policy issues related to information privacy, information security, information accessibility, open-source software, abuse and exploitation in the information age, genetic information, and robotics & artificial intelligence. Recently, he's focusing on profiling/prediction, data broker, and international data transfer. He holds LLM in Intellectual Property Law from the George Washington University Law School, LLM with Law and Technology (IP) Certificate from University of California, Berkeley, School of Law, and LLM in International and European Law with specialization in Data Law from the VUB/IES (Great Distinction). Prior to joining LSTS, he has worked in the business sector as well as the academic sector. He started his career as a web application programmer and information security consultant, and he has worked at the University of Tokyo and Toin University of Yokohama.

William Min, JD
Executive Vice President and General Counsel
LexisNexis Risk Solutions

William (Bill) Min is the Executive Vice President and General Counsel for LexisNexis® Risk Solutions ("LNRS") based in Alpharetta, Georgia. Bill is responsible for all legal, compliance, privacy, and regulatory matters at LNRS and leads a global team of approximately 100 legal professionals. LNRS is a portfolio of brands that provides its customers with information-based analytics and decision tools in multiple industries, including agriculture, aviation, chemicals and energy, commercial property, financial services, government and law enforcement agencies, healthcare, human resources, insurance, and tax. Bill holds a BA in the Biological Basis of Behavior from the University of Pennsylvania, a MA in Liberal Studies from Stony Brook University, and a JD from Fordham University School of Law. Bill's legal career spans more than thirty years. Prior to joining LNRS in 2019, Bill held in-house legal positions at Western Union, Live Nation Entertainment, Inc., Starwood Hotels & Resorts, Sara Lee Corporation, and Sunkyong America, Inc. He began his legal career as a mergers and acquisitions attorney at two New York City firms. In 2023, Bill was honored by the Association of Corporate Counsel (ACC) Georgia Chapter in partnership with the Atlanta Business Chronicle as the General Counsel of the Year – Large Legal Department. Outside his work as a lawyer, Bill dedicates his life generously to serving his community. He has volunteered more than 7,000 hours as an Emergency Medical Technician. In 2016, Bill received the President's Lifetime Achievement Award for his volunteer service from President Barack Obama.

Jumana Musa, JD
Director
NACDL's Fourth Amendment Center

Jumana Musa is Director of the Fourth Amendment Center at the National Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers (NACDL), where she oversees initiatives to challenge Fourth Amendment violations and outdated legal doctrines that have allowed the government and law enforcement to rummage, with little oversight or restrictions, through people's private digital files. The Fourth Amendment Center provides assistance and training for defense attorneys handling cases involving surveillance technologies like geofencing, Stingrays that track people's digital locations, facial recognition, and more. Ms. Musa was the co-author of NACDL's report on data driven policing titled Garbage In, Gospel Out: How Data-Driven Policing Technologies Entrench Historic Racism and 'Tech-wash' Bias in the Criminal Legal System. Prior to joining NACDL, Ms. Musa was a policy consultant for the Southern Border Communities Coalition, comprised of over 60 groups across the southwest organized to help immigrants facing brutality and abuse by border enforcement agencies and support a human immigration agenda. Previously, as Deputy Director for the Rights Working Group, a national coalition of civil rights, civil liberties, human rights, and immigrant rights advocates, Musa coordinated the "Face the Truth" campaign against racial profiling. She was also the Advocacy Director for Domestic Human Rights and International Justice at Amnesty International USA, where she addressed the domestic and international impact of U.S. counterterrorism efforts on human rights.

Ruth L. Okediji, SJD, LLM, LLB
Jeremiah Smith, Jr. Professor of Law
Co-Director, Berkman Klein Center
Harvard Law School

Ruth L. Okediji is the Jeremiah Smith, Jr. Professor of Law at Harvard Law School and Co-Director of the Berkman Klein Center. A renowned scholar in international intellectual property (IP) law and a foremost authority on the role of intellectual property in social and economic development, Professor Okediji has advised inter-governmental organizations, regional economic communities, and national governments on a range of matters related to technology, innovation policy, and development. Her widely cited scholarship on IP and development has influenced government policies in sub-Saharan Africa, the Caribbean, Latin America, and South America. Her ideas have helped shape national strategies for the implementation of the WTO's Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPS Agreement). Professor Okediji was a member of the United States National Academies' Board on Science, Technology and Policy Committee on the Impact of Copyright Policy on Innovation in the Digital Era. She served as the Chief Technical Expert and Lead Negotiator for the Delegation of Nigeria to the 2013 WIPO Diplomatic Conference to Conclude a Treaty to Facilitate Access to Published Works by Visually Impaired Persons and Persons with Print Disabilities (Marrakesh VIP Treaty). Okediji was appointed by United Nations Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon to the 2015 – 2016 High Level Panel on Access to Medicines. Professor Okediji is a recipient of numerous awards for excellence in teaching, research and mentoring. She is an editor of the Journal of World Intellectual Property Law and an elected member of the American Law Institute. Her most recent book, Copyright Law in an Age of Limitations and Exceptions, was published by Cambridge University Press in 2017. Professor Okediji is a graduate of the University of Jos and Harvard Law School.

Daren Orzechowski, JD
Partner; Global Co-Head of Technology Practice
Allen & Overy LLP

Daren is the global co-head of Allen & Overy's Technology practice. He is a partner in the Silicon Valley office focusing on M&A and technology transactions. For more than 20 years, Daren has represented clients from a variety of industries in connection with their most important strategic intellectual property, data and technology-focused transactions. He regularly counsels clients in connection with M&A and IP strategy and licensing matters. Daren is recognized as a top technology deal lawyer both in Silicon Valley, where he is based, and globally. He has handled matters relating to a wide variety of technologies, including cloud computing and software-as-a-service offerings, drones, autonomous vehicles, semiconductors, artificial intelligence, social media, infrastructure and platform technologies, blockchain, and augmented and virtual reality related technologies. This experience provides him with a broad perspective that is essential to analyzing difficult legal issues related to new and emerging technologies. He is ranked by Chambers, Legal 500, IAM Patent 1000, and IAM Strategy 300: The World's Leading IP Strategists. Private equity and venture capital investors as well as large corporate and start-up clients seek Daren's advice regarding transactions involving the acquisition, development and licensing of intellectual property, software, hardware and data. Daren has also assisted clients in forming new funds for investment into the technology industry. He has an extensive track record in M&A, strategic alliances, outsourcing, and licensing arrangements, as well as day-to-day operational matters ranging from product development to supply chain issues for devices and cloud-based solutions. He regularly handles complex international joint ventures and corporate transactions and projects related to digitization and information technology.

Andrew Perlman, JD, LLM
Dean & Professor of Law
Suffolk University School of Law

Dean Andrew Perlman is a nationally recognized voice on the future of legal education and law practice. He has served in several leadership roles involving the future of legal services, including as Inaugural Chair, Governing Council of the American Bar Association Center for Innovation; Vice Chair, ABA Commission on the Future of Legal Services; and Chief Reporter, ABA Commission on Ethics 20/20 (responsible for updating the ABA Model Rules of Professional Conduct to reflect changes in technology and increased globalization). Dean Perlman also has held numerous leadership and supporting positions on various other reform initiatives, such as serving as a founding dean of the Advisory Committee of the ABA-Legal Education Police Practices Consortium; as a member of the Law School Admission Council's Legal Education Program Advisory Committee (developing an alternate pathway to law school admission); as a member of the American Academy of Arts & Sciences Access to Justice Advisory Committee; and as a member of the Content Scope Committee of the National Conference of Bar Examiners (NCBE) (advising the NCBE on the content for the next generation of the bar exam). He has written numerous articles on legal ethics that have appeared in some of the nation's leading law reviews and co-authored a civil procedure casebook that has been adopted at more than 80 law schools. Prior to entering academia, Dean Perlman clerked for a federal district court judge in Chicago and practiced as a litigator there. He is an honors graduate of Yale College and Harvard Law School, and he received his LL.M from Columbia Law School.

Jed S. Rakoff, JD
Judge, United States District Court
Southern District of New York

Jed S. Rakoff has served since March 1996 as a U.S. District Judge for the Southern District of New York. He also frequently sits by designation on the 2nd and 9th Circuit Courts of Appeals. Judge Rakoff holds the position of Adjunct Professor at both Columbia Law School and NYU Law School, and Adjunct Lecturer at Berkeley Law School and University of Virginia Law School . He has written over 170 published articles, 700 speeches, 1800 judicial opinions, and co-authored 5 books. He is also a regular contributor to the New York Review of Books. Judge Rakoff holds a B.A. degree from Swarthmore College (1964), an M.Phil. degree from Oxford University (Balliol, 1966), and a JD degree from Harvard Law School (1969). Following law school, he clerked for the late Hon. Abraham L. Freedman, US Court of Appeals, Third Circuit, and was then an associate at the Debevoise Law Firm. From 1973-80, he served as an Assistant United States Attorney Office in the Southern District of New York, the last two years as Chief of Business & Securities Fraud Prosecutions. Thereafter, before going on the bench, he was a partner at two large law firms in New York, specializing in white collar criminal defense and civil RICO. Judge Rakoff served on the National Commission on Forensic Science and as co-chair of the National Academy of Science's Committee on Eyewitness Identification. He served on the New York City Bar Association's Executive Committee and was chair of the Association's Nomination, Honors and Criminal Law Committees. He is a Judicial Fellow of the American College of Trial Lawyers and the American Board of Criminal Lawyers. He was a Director of the New York Council of Defense Lawyers. In 2014, Judge Rakoff was listed by Fortune Magazine as one of the World's 50 Greatest Leaders.

Marc Rotenberg, JD, LLM
Founder and Executive Director
Center for AI and Digital Policy

Marc Rotenberg is president and founder of the Center for AI and Digital Policy (CAIDP) and adjunct professor of law at Georgetown University. CAIDP, a non-profit, research organization, based in Washington, DC. CAIDP publishes annually AI and Democratic Values, a comprehensive review of AI policies and practices around the world, trains AI policy leaders, and promotes democratic values, fundamental rights, and the rule of law. Professor Rotenberg is a leading expert in data protection, open government, and AI policy. He serves as an expert advisor on AI policy to many organizations, including the Council of Europe, the Council on Foreign Relations, the European Data Protection Board, the European Parliament, the Global Partnership on AI, the OECD, and UNESCO. Professor Rotenberg has testified before the U.S. Congress on more than sixty occasions and has authored more than one hundred amicus briefs for cases raising novel privacy and civil liberties issues, including thirty amicus briefs for the U.S. Supreme Court. He has given invited lectures in more than 50 countries. Professor Rotenberg's forthcoming casebook is The Law of Artificial Intelligence (2023). He is coauthor of Privacy Law and Society (2016); editor of The AI Policy Sourcebook (2020) and The Privacy Law Sourcebook: United States Law, International Law, and Recent Developments (2020); and coeditor of Privacy in the Modern Age: The Search for Solutions (2015), Litigation Under the Federal Open Government Laws (2010), and Privacy and Technology: The New Landscape (1998). Professor Rotenberg's articles and commentaries have appeared in the Economist, the Harvard Business Review, the Harvard International Review, the Harvard Journal of Law and Public Policy, the New York Times, the OECD Observer, the Stanford Technology Law Review, and Techonomy, among others. He was elected to the European Law Institute in 2021. Professor Rotenberg is a fellow of the American Bar Foundation and a member of the Council on Foreign Relations. He has received several awards and honors, including the World Technology Award in Law, the American Lawyer Award for Top Lawyers Under 45, the ABA Cyberlaw Excellence Award, the Norbert Weiner Award for Social and Professional Responsibility, and the Vicennial medal from Georgetown University for twenty years of distinguished service. Professor Rotenberg holds a bachelor's degree from Harvard College, a juris doctorate from Stanford University, and a master of laws degree from Georgetown University.

Matthew Sag, LLB
Professor of Law in Artificial Intelligence, Machine Learning, and Data Science
Emory University Law School

Matthew Sag is a Professor of Law in Artificial Intelligence, Machine Learning and Data Science at Emory University Law School. Professor Sag is an expert in copyright law and intellectual property. He is a leading U.S. authority on the fair use doctrine in copyright law and its implications for researchers in the fields of text data mining, machine learning, and AI. Professor Sag was born and educated in Australia. He earned honors in Law at the Australian National University in Canberra and clerked for Justice Paul Finn at the Australian Federal Court. Professor Sag practiced law in London as an associate at Arnold & Porter, and in Silicon Valley with Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom. Prior to Emory, Professor Sag taught at DePaul University and Loyola Chicago; he has also held visiting posts at Northwestern University, the University of Virginia and the University of Melbourne. Professor Sag's research has been published in leading journals such as Nature and Science, and the law reviews of the University of California Berkeley, Georgetown, Northwestern, Notre Dame, Vanderbilt, Iowa and William & Mary, among others. He has testified to the U.S. Senate Judiciary Committee Subcommittee on Intellectual Property in relation to copyright and Generative AI, and his research is widely cited in academic works, court submissions, judicial opinions, and government reports.

Jason M. Schultz, JD
Professor of Clinical Law
Director, Technology Law & Policy Clinic
Co-Director, Engelberg Center on Innovation Law and Policy
NYU School of Law

Jason M. Schultz is a Professor of Clinical Law, Director of NYU's Technology Law & Policy Clinic, and Co-Director of the Engelberg Center on Innovation Law & Policy. His clinical projects, research, and writing primarily focus on practical frameworks and policy options to help traditional areas of law such as intellectual property, privacy, consumer protection, and civil rights adapt in light of new technologies and the challenges they pose. His most recent work focuses on the social and legal implications of machine learning, artificial intelligence, and the Internet of Things. During the 2016-2017 academic year, Professor Schultz was on leave to work at the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy, where he served as Senior Advisor on Innovation and Intellectual Property to U.S. Chief Technology Officer Megan Smith. With Aaron Perzanowski, he is the author of The End of Ownership: Personal Property in the Digital Economy (MIT Press 2016), which argues for retaining consumer property rights in a marketplace that increasingly threatens them.

Daniel J. Solove, JD
Eugene L. and Barbara A. Bernard Professor of Intellectual Property and Technology Law
George Washington University Law School

Daniel J. Solove is the Eugene L. and Barbara A. Bernard Professor of Intellectual Property and Technology Law at the George Washington University Law School. One of the world's leading experts in privacy law, Solove is the author of 10+ books and 100+ articles. He has published books with Oxford, Harvard, and Yale University Presses, and articles in the Harvard, Stanford, and Columbia Law Reviews, among others. His works have been translated into many languages. Solove founded two companies, one that provides privacy training to organizations and another that involves education, events, and certification to privacy professionals. He founded the Privacy Law Scholars Conference, the largest academic conference in privacy law. He served as co-reporter for the ALI's Principles of Law, Data Privacy. A graduate of Yale Law School, Solove clerked for Judge Stanley Sporkin, U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia and Judge Pamela Ann Rymer, U.S. Court of Appeals for the 9th Circuit. He also was an associate at Arnold & Porter LLP and a senior policy advisor at Hogan Lovells LLP. Solove has been interviewed and quoted in hundreds of media articles and broadcasts. He has more than 1 million LinkedIn followers. He has written a children's fiction book about privacy and has been depicted as a character in a play. He has been a consultant for many Fortune 500 companies and celebrities. He is the #1 most cited law professor born after 1970 and the #1 most cited law professor in the law and technology field.

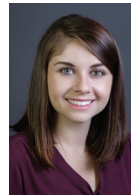

Harry Surden, JD
Professor of Law
University of Colorado

Harry Surden is a distinguished legal scholar and Professor of Law at the University of Colorado. He is also the Associate Director of Stanford University's CodeX Center for Legal Informatics. Professor Surden is one of the leading scholars of artificial intelligence and law and is the creator of Computable Contracts. His articles "Structural Rights in Privacy", "Machine Learning and Law", and "Artificial and Law: An Overview" have been widely cited. Professor Surden has a background both in computer science and law. Prior to entering academia, Professor Surden worked as a professional software engineer at Cisco Systems and Bloomberg L.P. He is a graduate of Stanford University and Cornell University, both with honors.

Andrew W. Torrance, PhD, JD
Paul E. Wilson Distinguished Professor of Law
University of Kansas

Andrew W. Torrance is the Paul E. Wilson Distinguished Professor of Law at the University of Kansas, a Visiting Scientist at the MIT Sloan School of Management, a Senior Fellow of the Gruter Institute, and an elected member of the American Law Institute. He received his B.Sc. (Honours) from Queen's University (Canada), his AM and PhD. in Biology from Harvard University, and his JD from Harvard Law School. His research and teaching encompass patent law, intellectual property, food and drug law, biolaw, biodiversity law, legal analytics, conservation biology, genetics, and evolution. Torrance has previously been a Visiting Professor at Harvard University, the University of Washington, and the University of Toronto. At the University of Kansas, he has received the Dean Frederick T. Moreau Teaching and Mentoring Award, the University Scholarly Achievement Award, the Earl B. Shurtz Research Professorship, and the Docking Fellowship. He cofounded the Patent Conference (PatCon) and the Biolaw Conference (Biolawlapalooza), authored or coauthored roughly 80 scholarly articles and book chapters, and has presented or taught in a dozen countries, and at institutions including Harvard, Stanford, Yale, MIT, Google, Microsoft, the OECD, WTO, the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO), the Canadian Intellectual Property Office (CIPO), and United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO). A book on innovation of which he was a co-author received the 2016 Freeman Prize. He has served as President of the Faculty of the University of Kansas, head of intellectual property at the Broad Institute of MIT and Harvard, and as a policy advisor to presidential candidate Barack Obama as part of his Technology, Media, and Telecommunications Committee.

Erica Valencia-Graham, JD
Research Director & Edelman Fellow
Neuroscience and Law Center
Fordham University School of Law

Erica Valencia-Graham is currently serving as the Research Director at the Neuroscience and Law Center, where she works closely with Deborah Denno on various research projects, publications, and events. She also runs the student research program every year and has trained and supervised over forty legal research assistants during her seven years with the Center. She received a Bachelor of Arts from Villanova University, a Juris Doctorate from Fordham University School of Law and is a member of the California Bar Association. During law school, Erica worked as a research assistant for Deborah Denno for three years, focusing mainly on death penalty research. Prior to joining the Neuroscience and Law Center full time, Erica worked at a criminal defense firm in Orange County, California.

GUEST WI-FI ACCESS

Guest Network: FordhamGuest

1. Go to Settings > Wi-Fi
2. Select FordhamGuest and connect
3. Click on the Accept button

By choosing the "Accept" button, you indicate that you accept the risks associated with using the [Fordham Guest] network. Fordham is not responsible for any problems that might arise as a result of using this network.